To support effective communication & assist with the sharing of CTE business & relevant educator preparation information, we have established a News & Updates from the TEC & CTE document that will be emailed monthly following CTE meetings.  - f. As of the start of the first week of the semester Teacher Education student numbers:
 - COE – 2349 (57.6%)
 - Secondary / K12 – 1726 (42.4%)
 - Total for students in Teacher Education majors – 4075 (100%)
- IX. Discussion Items:
 - a. With the new change of school code that student teachers do not need to have passed the content test to student teach. We would like to discuss and propose an ISU policy that students must attempt the content test by the existing date deadlines of December 15 and July 15 to meet gateway requirements.

Attempting and passing the ILTS content test should be a point of emphasis for all ISU TE programs. CTE must review and change the current Gateway 1 catalog requirement of passing a programs respective content test before student teaching to align with recently passed legislation. As such, we recommend the following:

Create a gateway 1 milestone that requires attempt of the content test before student teaching:

- This is what CTE determined was needed during COVID due to the low number of students attempting the test in a timely manner for licensure.
- A testing attempt would still be required before student teaching. The result would not stop a student's progress.
- Gateway 1 milestone for passage of the content test can be moved to Gateway 2 (allowing students to still see it as a requirement, even though it will not stop graduation) or it can be removed completely from the gateway system.

Rationale- If students do not have a requirement to attempt the content test before student teaching, we will see many students waiting to take content test. Many may wait until after they graduate, when they are no longer able to easily receive ISU resources and are no longer being reviewed by ISU staff for licensure (responsibility to reach out to ISU is on the student post-graduation). Additionally, many students who wait until after graduation to attempt the test may negatively impact annual program reporting due to lower ISBE passage rates and time to program completion/licensure.

Option 1- Create gateway 1 milestone to show attempted content test and move current Gateway 1 milestone tracking passage of content test to Gateway 2 or

Option 2- Create gateway 1 milestone to show attempted content test and remove gateway 1 milestone tracking passage of content test completely.

- VI. Discussion Items:
 - I. HB 5057 –discussion continued about the status of attempting the content test prior to student teaching and where that should be placed in the Gateway system.

Create a gateway 1 milestone that requires an attempt of the content test before student teaching:

- This is what CTE determined was needed during COVID due to the low number of students attempting the test in a timely manner for licensure.
- A testing attempt would still be required before student teaching. The result would not stop a student's progress.
- Gateway 1 milestone for passage of the content test can be moved to Gateway 2 (allowing students to still see it as a requirement, even though it will not stop graduation), or it can be removed completely from the gateway system.

Rationale- If students do not have a requirement to attempt the content test before student teaching, we will see many students waiting to take the content test. Many may wait until after graduation when they can no longer easily receive ISU resources and are no longer being reviewed by ISU staff for licensure (the responsibility to reach out to ISU is on the student post-graduation). Additionally, many students who wait until after graduation to attempt the test may negatively impact annual program reporting due to lower ISBE passage rates and time to program completion/licensure. Districts are now inquiring if students have passed and have expressed hesitation in accepting a student teacher who has not passed the content test as many are interested in hiring teachers upon graduation and worry of their content readiness to teach.

Option 1- Create gateway 1 milestone to show attempted content test and move current Gateway 1 milestone tracking passage of content test to Gateway 2 or

Option 2- Create gateway 1 milestone to show attempted content test and remove gateway 1 milestone tracking passage of content test completely.
