Taking an ISBE content Test

All ISBE required content tests are organized through the Illinois Licensure Testing System (ILTS) and are found at www.il.nesinc.com

You can also find additional information on the Teacher Education Center testing website:

<https://teachercenter.illinoisstate.edu/students/gateways/content/>

- The ILTS website has registration information for all ISBE licensure tests required for endorsements. These tests are specific to Illinois licensure. You can use the ILTS website resources to:
 - Locate testing locations – Geographic search option
 - Register to take an exam
 - Access testing framework and study guide examples (when available)
 - Review test score result information
 - Learn about Content Test free retake Policy (specific rules apply)
 - Access Free practice exam (when available)
 - Access ILTS Right Start Training programs- Training materials for applicable exams
- When ready to take an ILTS exam you must create a testing account on the ILTS website using your social security number.
- Important Notes
 - ILTS exams use your social security number to link to your ISBE Educator Licensure Information System (ELIS) account. If you do not have an ELIS account already created, one will be created in ELIS based on your testing information. You can then gain access to it through the ISBE website. ISU students create an ELIS account as part of the PBA workshop process. You can also go to <https://www.isbe.net/elis/> and create an account.
 - When taking an ILTS exam, please choose ISU as a recipient of your scores so your tests can be verified for your milestones/licensure processing.
 - Some content tests areas currently have two active tests as they transition from the old test to the new. For these areas, passage of either test meets ISBE licensure requirements.

ISU Initial Professional Education Licensure Test Areas

The following tables give specific information on common ILTS content exams. General test information can also be found on the Teacher Education Centers website: <https://teachercenter.illinoisstate.edu/students/gateways/content/>

Legend – The following legend explains what each content test item means to assist with preparing for the exam:

Program	This identifies the endorsement test content area
Current Test Number	All ILTS content tests are numbered. This section identifies what ILTS test number the specific content area major should take. Please note, some content areas currently have two active tests as they transition from the old test to the new. For these areas, passage of either test meets ISBE licensure requirements. You can use the resource materials to assist you with determining which test may be best for you to take or you can discuss with your department. Special Education initial teacher licensure programs must take two licensure tests (General SED and specialist SED).
Teaching Grade Range	This identifies the ISBE grade range of the endorsement area.

ILTS Website Link	The weblinks in the content test boxes below identify the ILTS website dedicated to the specific content test. Access it to find information/resources about the specific test.
Resources (Legend Continued)	This section identifies the specific resources available for the content area test. • All ILTS tests have free resources found on the following website (Search for specific test) https://www.il.nesinc.com/PageView.aspx?f=GEN_PreparationMaterials.html%20 ○ Framework- Explanation of how the test is designed with info on each subscore area ○ General Study Guide information – Often contains test content and sample questions ○ Understanding test results – Information about test scores and how subscores result in an overall Scale score used for test passage • A large number of tests have free resources through Milner Libraries Mometrix e-library. If available for your content test, the Mometrix resource information will be listed. Note – Some tests do not currently have Mometrix free resources, but they do continue to make updates, so new exams continue to be uploaded to the resource.
